

MANY HEAR AUTO SHOW SPEAKERS

Secretary Says We Have Best Exhibit for Size of City He Has Seen—Baker Has Praise for Ulster Auto Club—Armory Crowded.

Judging from the appearance of Broadway from the post office to the city hall last evening, there was an overflow meeting of the Automobile Show going on outside the Armory. Certainly the real show inside the big hall was crowded about to the limit, especially to hear the speakers. The evening opened with a good musical program, and before the notables arrived and during the speaking the humming bird of an aeroplane made as great a sensation as on the previous evening.

The short program of speaking was opened by the mayor, who first called attention to the severe strain under which our representatives at Washington had labored during the war period, especially our own congressman, who never left the field of action for even a short period, lest he fail to be present for any important action needing his attention. It was therefore with peculiar pleasure, Mayor Canfield said, that he was able to announce that Congressman Charles B. Ward would be the first speaker of the evening. Congressman Ward was given a most cordial welcome.

Ward Opposes League.

The congressman was warm in his expressions of praise and commendation for this, the most successful automobile show ever held in Ulster county. He said he would always be glad to hear from and co-operate with the auto users of this county, regarding any matter which would prove beneficial to the automobilists of the county. Then speaking briefly of the federal congress, Mr. Ward said that while the 66th congress would be different in character from the 65th congress just passed out, it would not necessarily be antagonistic to the president but would have at heart the best government for the people of the country. It would try to fulfill the wish of the great American people.

Speaking of the League of Nations, Congressman Ward said that as at present constituted it consisted of five great nations with the votes so divided that Great Britain would have five out of the nine votes. The constitutional power of the United States congress to declare war would be taken away from that body and delegates to the League of Nations. We might have to surrender our National Army. One of two things will happen, according to the speaker; either we must adopt internationalism or we must have more Americanism. It was his belief that in order to show our added appreciation of the way in which our enlisted men have given their very lives for their country, the thing needed was more Americanism, which sentiment was enthusiastically applauded.

Hugo Praises Show and Troopers.

The next speaker introduced by Mayor Canfield, with an interesting brief history of his many duties as secretary of state, outside those of the automobile interests, was Secretary of State Francis Hugo. Secretary Hugo, in spite of his openly expressed admiration for and fascination by the aeroplane, was able to fully compliment those who had arranged what he considered, for the size of the community, to be the finest automobile show he had as yet attended. He further expressed his delight always to accept an invitation to be present with the Ulster County Automobile Club or to attend an Ulster county automobile show. He then heartily congratulated the state upon its state troopers and their efficient head, his host, Major George F. Chandler, for the splendid work which they have been doing in enforcing the automobile law of the state, a very considerable feat. Through fines and fees collected in the enforcing of this law, the troopers have become almost self-supporting. Regulating traffic in this Empire State was shown to be one of the biggest problems of government in the state.

In the state we have had the past year some 467,000 autos with over 10,000 licensed chauffeurs, traveling over our 26,000 miles of highway, not to mention those autos which come into our state from outside. The problem in New York City alone is a staggering one. Today the state troopers are taking care of every part of the state above the Bronx. This state was shown to own more autos than all the states in the Union, and from the licenses it was demonstrated the state gets its third largest revenue, the first two being from taxes and excise.

24 Million for Roads.

Secretary Hugo also spoke in very complimentary terms of the good roads of our state, made possible through the introduction of the automobile. This year $24,000,000 will be appropriated for the addition to our good roads conditions, especially to building good roads connecting the present "leaves of despond" with good roads which are the desire of motorists. This statement met with much applause. The work on our highway will also go far toward solving the problem of transportation, according to the speaker.

Then touching upon legislation to insure the automobile owners, Secretary Hugo mentioned a few points which would be for the betterment of the state and making more safe our highway traffic. Where the large motor trucks today, because of their

FILE INCOME TAX REPORTS TODAY

At 12 o'clock tonight the office of Roscoe Irwin, collector of internal revenue, at Albany, will close, and the last opportunity to file reports will end. Penalties consisting of increased taxes and also a fine will be imposed on those who fail to file returns. Those coming under the tax are single persons with an income of $1,000 and married persons with an income of $2,000. There are no exceptions to the regulations governing those who have to file returns. Deputy Collectors Donovan and Brodhead will remain at the supervisors' room at the court house this evening.

SEVERAL AUTO SALES

From Exhibits at the Armory Auto Show.

O. M. Kennedy, proprietor of the Central Garage on Broadway, has carried off the honors of being the first dealer exhibitor at the automobile show to sell a car from his attractive display. Yesterday afternoon, after attracting attention from every one at the show, the catchy little Scrimps-Booth touring car in the display of the Central Garage was purchased by a New Paltz resident. This car has been a "vampire" to all lovers of motor cars since the show opened and yesterday afternoon the deal was closed for its sale. It is a "6" cylinder car capable of exceptional speed for a small car and is finished in a rich mass of buff and tan coloring with tan silk covers.

One or two other cars were sold at the show last night from the floor and more prospects are expected to make their purchases before the show closes tonight.

CHAUFFEURS EXAM.

In Kingston March 27th—More Comprehensive Instruction.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, March 15. (Special.)—

From now on examiners in charge of state tests for chauffeur licenses will give a short talk at the conclusion of each examination, at which time those present will be instructed as to the correct answer to each of the ten questions asked. The talk will also include a short discourse on the general traffic laws. Secretary of State Hugo expects that this procedure will broaden the applicant's knowledge and will have a tendency to bring about better driving conditions. There will be an examination for chauffeurs in Kingston on March 27, beginning at 12:30 o'clock, at the city hall. E. J. Murphy, an examiner in the Albany office, will be in charge of the road test as well as the written examination.

New Cornell Rensselaer Office.

The Cornell Towing Company, Friday took possession of its new quarters in the bank building, Second avenue and Broadway, Rensselaer. When the company was compelled to vacate its offices on the river front there was an impression it would locate its offices and make up its tools in Albany, says the Knickerbocker Press. Business men of lower Rensselaer were much concerned for they would mean a loss of several thousand dollars annually to them, as crews of canal tugboats get supplies from business houses in lower Rensselaer.

own noise-making power are unable to hear the honk of an ordinary car behind them, so as to allow the speeder machine to pass on. It will be provided that the trucks carry mirrors so that the drivers can see when a lighter machine is following them.

It is proposed to make the legislation more stringent against the decline in stolen cars, by providing that the registration card must be with the car and be presented with it. And for the safe-guarding of human life, Secretary Hugo was of the opinion that some sort of legislation would be enacted providing that only those efficient and fully capable of driving any car should be allowed to do so. Secretary Hugo offered the prophecy that this coming year would be the biggest year for the automobile dealers in the history of the business and closed his address with expressions of appreciation of the war work of every sort which has been accomplished by the people of Ulster county, and which has made of them a more united and a better people who have learned to use the word "we" in place of "I" and the pronoun "you" rather than the pronoun "I."

Latest Lumber Auto Show.

The last speaker of the evening was Frederick Baker, secretary of the New York State Automobile Association, who offered his compliments on the splendidly successful and well-planned work of the state troopers. Mr. Baker showed in a very few words that the automobile owners of the state as well as the state are greatly indebted to the state troopers for the work they have done in the past year. He then mentioned the action of these organizations in the interest of the state and the automobile industry. P. S. C. HAS NO POWER

To Compel O. & W. to Maintain Phillipsport Bridge.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, March 15. (Special.)—

The public service commission, second district, Friday held that it is without power to act in the complaint of residents of Phillipsport, Sullivan county, against the Ontario & Western Railroad Company over maintaining a highway bridge.

The bridge is on a highway connecting the main Phillipsport highway with the Ontario & Western Railroad, and the cross highway is used almost entirely as means of access to the railroad station. The highway has been used for 40 years, but there is no record that it has been laid out or accepted by the town as a public highway.

Some evidence was given at the hearing before Commissioner Fennell that about two-thirds of the bridge was within right of way lines of the railroad, but the latter's official claimed the railroad had no proper title to the right of way at the location of the bridge nor 200 feet northerly nor about 350 feet south, and that the company's only right was by adverse possession. The bridge, the railroad claimed, was not within the right of way.

Commissioner Fennell in writing the opinion for the commission says: "The evidence does not warrant a finding that the bridge is in whole or in part within the railway right of way. Whatever bearing, if any, an inclusion of the bridge within the right of way might have, it is therefore not necessary to determine here. It would seem that in this case equity would require that the town should pay toward the replacement or maintenance of the present bridge such proportion of the cost thereof, as would be measured by the reconstruction or maintenance cost of the bridge across the creek before the railroad was built, and the railroad should pay the balance. This is particularly true in this case as the bridge is used almost entirely to go to and from the railroad station."

"The commission has used its best offices and expended considerable time in an endeavor to induce the parties hereto to make such amicable arrangement between themselves as would provide safe passage for the public using the bridge. The efforts have been unavailing. This commission has no power to determine such a question and we can find no authority in the Public Service Commissions Law to compel reconstruction or maintenance of this bridge. Relief must be had by action in the supreme court to determine the relative legal rights and duties of the town and railway company regarding the bridge."

EXPRESS OFFICE LOCATION

Subject of Interest to Uptown Business Men.

Rumor to the effect that the American Railway Express Company are to move their John street office to the Cameron building on lower Broadway near the West Shore is creating a lot of disapproval from the uptown merchants who have daily dealings with this office in the transportation of their express. This business move from the uptown business section of Wall street would prove very inconvenient to the merchants and would be of disadvantage to the express company as well. It is a well known fact that the express office on John street will have to be vacant by April first to enable the National City County Bank to carry out their plans of alteration to the bank building of which the express office is a part. Officials of the company have given out no definite information as to their plans for moving but they acknowledge the statement that they have to vacate their present location by the first of next month. In the opinion of the uptown merchants lower Broadway is not the proper location for the express company's office.

A Correction.

Editor of Kingston Daily Freeman.

We wish to take exception to an article in your Friday's issue of The Freeman that the entire Wachneier funeral equipment was sold to another undertaker. We wish to emphatically deny this statement as absolutely false and no truth in same whatever. There were a few cases (empty) in the building when stock was sold, and that is all, which they purchased from the buyer. Our funeral parlors are at residence, No. 11 Home street, where the same care will be given as heretofore to anything entrusted to our care, either night or day. We wish to thank the public for the patronage bestowed in the past, and the same careful attention will be given in the future to any call received. Sincerely yours, KATHERINE E. WACHNEIER.

Improved Shoe Dyeing.

Not up to date but a day ahead in the new shoe dyeing process that Theon Moore of Miller's barber shop on Wall street has adopted. It is an old thing to dye an old pair of tan shoes black but it is quite a new idea for a lady to take an old pair of white or light colored kid leather shoes or oxfords and have them dyed in a rich colored tan or dark mahogany shade. Theon Moore has a process by which this may be done in one day, and it has produced the most pleasing result.

Yanks Chafed at Halifax.

Several hundred Americans who fought with the British and Canadian during the war, got into port today on the Toloa, from Halifax. A number of these men threatened to open the Toloa's scrocks at Halifax several days ago because of the delay in sending them home. The trouble started when the Canadian authorities at Halifax refused to send the men home by rail because they were American citizens, though they had fought beneath the British flag. Finally the Toloa started for New York but put back to port at Halifax to coal up for the return trip to Europe, having received word that it would be impossible to get coal here because of the harbor strike. The Americans then became indignant and threatened to sink the vessel.

Mountains of Barbed Wire.

Secretary Shaw divided the boys of this country into two groups, those left at home and those over there; and those over there he again subdivided into two groups; those at the front and those back of them.

Thousands of our boys never got anywhere near the front because they were needed to do the work to provide for those who were fighting.

One big piece of work engaged in by our boys was the building of freight cars, way in the rear of the front lines. It was a hard task to keep these boys from deserting for the front and more active participation in the fighting and it took a visit from General Pershing to reconcile them to their task as one of vital importance.

The most of the parts for these cars came from this country. Because of the scarcity of wood in France, many of the factories and even the telegraph poles have been built of packing cases, all painted drab. This showed a bit of our Yankee ingenuity.

There were mountains of barbed wire as high as our Central post office building. Here German prisoners, often two or three hundred of them, would be at work with only two guards. Asked if there was no danger of their deserting, the speaker said they were far too well off to even wish to desert.

Just to show how accustomed the people became to the "Big Berthas," the speaker told of shopping all one morning in Paris, for his work and being so occupied that he was surprised to learn that they had been booming away as usual all of the time. He had not even noticed them. The airplane raids were different and demanded a big scurrying to get out of the way after the warning was sounded.

Shaw's Front Line Impressions

While the boys were homesick they worked away bravely. When a "Y. M. C. A. canteen worker happens" to arrive at the camp during the night and have occasion to both cough and laugh before morning, an officer was heard to remark in the morning that it was worth five dollars just to hear an American woman cough and laugh once more.

Secretary Shaw gave a vivid description of how things look at the front for he was permitted to go so near the enemy lines as to fire one of the big 75's. Then he was taken to a well camouflaged ambulance where he could see the exact result of the firing of the guns.

Always the wonder to him was that our men, with no training could accomplish what they did, especially under the awful nervous strain at all times.

Just to illustrate that last point, the speaker told of a guard on duty one dark night. Some one tried to pass, but they might almost as well have tried to pass a live wire. The guard was so nervous that he had killed an officer of the medical corps. The doctor, Santerio, Charles L. Davis, 246 Wall street; Thomas E. Hendry, 124 Brough avenue; Morton Lorn, 333 Albany avenue, city of Kingston.

After the strain of all that, the men would come in and get for books. It was hard to have to see they had none, but they might almost as well have tried to pass a live wire. The guard was so nervous that he had killed an officer of the medical corps. The doctor, Santerio, Charles L. Davis, 246 Wall street; Thomas E. Hendry, 124 Brough avenue; Morton Lorn, 333 Albany avenue, city of Kingston.

The entire address was vivid to a degree and very highly appreciated.

Shaw Addresses Y. M. C. A. Women

At Meeting of Auxiliary Friday—Spent 13 Months Near Front and Had Much of Interest to Tell.

The meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. was attended by some seventy members on Friday afternoon. Plans for work for the ensuing year were discussed but it was finally determined to leave the matter to the executive committee which will give in its report along this line at the next meeting. Those present were privileged to listen to a most unusually interesting talk given by Leland H. Shaw, secretary of the Poughkeepsie Y. M. C. A., who had spent thirteen months in France near Paris and even nearer the front. He noted how women were everywhere in evidence in France, all men—those much older than in our army—being engaged in fighting. One might see a few men in the banks, but it would soon be noted that they were without an arm or leg or hand or otherwise mutilated. The French men at the best are not rugged, and the wonder was, the speaker said, that as many had survived the ordeal of this terrible war as had. The daughters and grandmothers, were for the most part carrying on the business of the stores, factories, mercantile houses and in the fields. The speaker wanted his watch repaired. The women were keeping the shops, but the watch makers and repairers were at the front and he had to wait.

ST. JOHN'S HAS A FINE HONOR ROLL

Wall Street Episcopal Church Presented With Framed Group of 60
Pictures of Members Who Served in Great War by C. V. A. Decker.

There now hangs in the vestibule of St. John's Episcopal Church on Wall street, handsomely mounted, a complete group of photographs of the men and women of St. John's Episcopal Church who have been in service. This will remain a permanent reminder of the truth of what one of its boys wrote home that when needed the "St. John's boys were there," only the St. John's girls must be included also. This framed group was presented to the church by C. V. A.
Decker and is counted as one of the most deeply appreciated possessions of the church.

There are sixty names enrolled, together with the pictures in the collection which is a remarkable showing, considering the total membership of this church.

So much interest has been shown in this group of pictures, and so many people of the church and friends of the boys have expressed the wish to have a similar collection, that it has been arranged to have smaller, but perfectly clear productions of the same struck off by Photographer Merrillat, of the Pennington Studios, and offered for sale. The proceeds from the sale of the pictures will go toward the church fund for Easter flowers. All persons wishing one of the smaller pictures at a cost of 50 cents, are asked to immediately send in their orders to Charles A. Winter, of the E. Winter's
Sons' store, Miss Ida Kerr or Judson Whitehead.

ASTLE CITED FOR BRAVERY

Former Kingston Man in Famous Second Division—Couldn't Sleep Because Bed Was Too Soft—Will Be Glad To Get Home.

First Class Private W. H. Astle, formerly of this city, aged 18 when he enlisted in the army, and at one time employed by E. S. Craft, the grocer, now at 306 1/2 Wall street, has sent a very interesting letter to Mrs. Craft, mailed from Erfel, Germany, and received a few days ago. He is a member of Medical Detachment, 12th Field Artillery, now in the Army of Occupation, Second Division. While he makes no mention of it in his letter proper, he evidently received a citation for bravery, as in it he encloses on a slip the following in his writing:

"General Orders 53. Citations. Pvt. 1 c. W. H. Astle, Medical Dept. 12 F. Artillery. He assisted in removing wounded from a battery in an open field in direct view of the enemy, returning to the battery position under heavy shell fire to search for wounded after the battery had retired to a more protected position. This near Verzy July 21st, 1918."

Astle was not living in Kingston when he enlisted and it is not known by Mrs. Craft from what place he gave his residence nor whom he named as his nearest relative. His father was employed at one time at the Mohican store, and it is thought young Astle went with his mother to Paterson, N. J. While in this city Astle took great interest in the Boy Scouts and his name and picture is on the roll of honor of St. John's Episcopal Church.

In his letter directed to Mrs. Craft he says:

Dear Boss and Wife:—Just a few lines to let you all know that I am still alive but have a bad cold. We are having fine summer weather here, but a few days ago it had to rain. The streets here are so narrow that when a big truck passes you get splashed full of mud. The hills are full of vineyards. Of course, the grapes have all been picked, but the grass is still green. We were in those pictures you saw in Kingston. Our battery was firing a barrage one afternoon and he came up and took them. I suppose they were some pictures I was in. I was standing near one of our guns at the time. All so old Fritz was sending over a few of his rolling kitchens. I am glad you are doing such a fine business in the store. Today is Sunday and all these people are going to church.

Well, so far I have been in five different countries, England, France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Germany. We have certainly done some hiking. We have hiked through all of these countries. When we entered Belgium they had two bands playing and the cities were decorated up to the queen's taste. The old as well as the young turned out to greet us and shouted Viva America. At night when we stopped they opened their homes to us and also gave us beds.

My bunkie and I had a fine bed the first night but we couldn't sleep as it was too soft. After sleeping in dugouts, on the roadside in mud, or on a pile of stones, why such an animal as bed don't get right. The next night we took our rolls with us. They showed us the bed but we wanted some sleep so, of course, we took a soldier bed, the floor. Two blankets on the bottom and three over you. I have got so I can sleep with one blanket. I think that some of us fellows will have some time when we get back. While in Luxembourg I was taken sick. I had all I wanted to eat and good food. When I came to the Battery and had to eat stum and corn willy I got sick. We stayed in Ermsdorf, Luxembourg, ten days. You have the photograph of my little girl.

On December 1st we entered Germany at 2 p. m. on Sunday. These people here treat us fine. They say they didn't want to fight, but they had to. Nothing is too good here for the American soldier. Oh yes, I can ask for something to eat and a place to sleep. That is enough. Did you ever see Bill, you're Chocolate Kid, when he couldn't eat? Every time a shell came over they would say, "That's a Dud," and then used to think of Dud Craft. Ha! Ha! How is Ray getting along and where is he now? Poor fellow, he couldn't get over here. Oh, yes, this Second Division and nine more are in the army of occupation. We are across the Rhine and the only division, too, that is coming over. So you can see it is quite a honor to belong to the Second Division. I don't think we will start for home before April. I am glad to hear the Boy Scouts of Kingston are doing fine. I suppose that the 7th N. Y. Division will soon be home. One thing I am thankful for and that is I did my bit and would have done more if I could. The Kaiser didn't have my number—he shot it over the second year.

For our infantry we had the 5th and 6th Marines and the 9th and 23rd Infantry. Now take it from me you have to hand it to those boys. They certainly did their bit and made the Boche run. They know them too when they see him over here. Those are the boys that saved Paris. Oh sure we were their artillery, but we didn't do half as much as they did. We were at Chateau Thierry from June 3d until July 16th; Soissons, July 18th until the 26th; St. Mihiel, September 12th and left the 16th; Champagne October 1st until October 29th; Argonne, October 31 until November 17. When we weren't hiking from one front why we were back somewhere drilling eight hours a day. We are now in the army of occupation. Wish you all a happy New Year.

I wish they would sign those peace terms. I am living in a house now so by the end of three months I won't be very bad. You see, Dud, we were in some of the hottest places the Kaiser made.

While at Soissons we put three of his prize divisions in the repair shop. I haven't any souvenirs from the war, I am a souvenir enough. Don't you think so I don't think that anything will scare us when we get back. We are only four minutes' walk from the Rhine. When we look out the windows and see the Rhine it makes me think of the dear old Hudson. Well cheer up we will soon be home. Best regards to all at home and all my Kingston friends. I remain as ever and before your old friend and employe, Bill.

Your Chocolate Kid,

BILL.

Private W. N. Astle, Medical Detachment, 12th Field Artillery, A. E. F.

Mr. Craft calls his wife, "Dud," and that explains Astle's calling her by that name.

WILL SLEEP FOR A WEEK.

Sergeant Charles, Thred of Pig Pens and Chicken Coops.

Dear Susie—Just a few lines to let you know that I am well and hope you are the same. How is every thing at home? How is Rosie and Harvey? You do not know how I long to get home to see you all again and lay down in my good old bed once more so I can have a good night's rest. But now I am sleeping on the hard ground and you know that I miss my good old bed, but if I ever get home once again you bet your life that I will sleep for one whole week and I will be glad also to get home and get some of your home made bread because this war bread is so hard.

How is Jack, the dog and the cat. Did you get that present that I sent you and how did you like it. We do not get any good things to eat here. We have lots of long walks.

I suppose that you folks are having a good time at home. People here live in one room, chicken coops in the next and a pig pen in another. So you know that they must be all one family. I don't think that would like to live that way.

I can't think of any thing more at present. I think that I will close my letter for this time. Hoping to hear from you soon. I remain as ever, Your true and faithful friend,

SERGEANT JOSEPH CHARLES,
Co. L, 307th Infantry.
American E. F.

Did you ever hear a bullet whizz Or dodge a hand grenade
Have you watched long lines of trenches dug by Doughboys with spades
Have you seen a hill side blazing forth like the furnace room in hell
Have you camped over night in a ruined town with a raftier for a bed
With the horses stamping underneath in the morning when there fed
Have you heard the crump crumps whistling
Do you know the dud shells grunt
Have you played sat in the dugout
Then you have surely sat in the front

ROSENDALE.

Rosendale, March 15.—A "Home Bureau Meeting" will be held on Monday afternoon, March 17, at 2:30 o'clock in All Saints' parish house, Rosendale, to which the public is cordially invited. With going at hand we are turning our attention to "Clothes and Millinery." Miss Helen K. Robson, a specialist from Cornell University, will take up these subjects with us. Home dressmaking is very important. Bring some sewing with you. If you have a hat frame to cover with satin or straw or any material, bring it with you, for the making over of hats will be emphasized. We have been particularly fortunate in being able to have Miss Robson come to the county for instruction in "Clothing." Let all take advantage. Free your neighbors to come, as it will be of interest throughout the community, and a pleasure to meet Miss Robson, also Miss Stuart, our Home Demonstration Agent.

IRON THAT CAN BE WHITTLED.

It is well known that rapid cooling of hot metals hardens them. That the opposite is true has recently been demonstrated in striking fashion by the General Electric company. One of their electricians annealed American iron bars surrounded by hydrogen gas for three hours at a temperature above 1400 degrees Fahrenheit. The product was very little harder than the softest copper, and can be whittled with a knife—Scientific American.

SCHUHLE WANTS WHOLE FRUIT CROP

Plans Enlargement of Plant at Highland That Will Use Whole Fruit Production of Ulster County—Product Last Year Sold Before Made and Unable to Fill Orders.

John Schuhle of Highland wants a bridge across the Hudson at that place because he wants to live in Highland and be able to get to Poughkeepsie easily. He says:

"My personal make-up is such that it is impossible for me to come back to Highland to live with conditions as they are and I have been trying for the last eleven years to put this town on the map and wake up the dead. Lately I have been going around and making a great many speeches and I tell my audiences that they probably never heard of Highland but it is on the map (but in reality it isn't). I also tell them they raise grapes here in the summer and raise hell all winter." He may not get the bridge, so may have to continue residing in Poughkeepsie, but here is something he is going to get:

"Our company," he says, "is now making plans to triple the size of the plant which we now have and we intend to begin to build our new addition in the spring. When we get this in full operation, it will require a force to run it about twice the size of the population of Highland and its vicinity. This is why I am very much in favor of a bridge across the Hudson so we could come and go to Poughkeepsie as we pleased."

"A number of the business men of Poughkeepsie have asked me numerous times why we do not build the new plant in their city, but I only answer that it is no place for the grape juice business as we must stay where the fruit grows and you could not get the farmers to foot around and wait for a ferry to get their fruit to the factory. Then too, it would be foolish to have two plants and a double expense."

"Since this temperance wave has been going over the country, the Lord is with us when he has been against us for the last seventeen years and many, many times we became discouraged when we tried to push our business along but I made up my mind that some day the tide would turn in our favor and that time has now come when the world is waking up to some of the most radical changes in its history; the time is now when we must take a stand and select that which is the best for the benefit of all."

"My ambition is to build a town of our own on this side of the Hudson and keep a few thousand men and women employed, pay them good wages and make them happy; this would be my greatest enjoyment instead of pocketing all the profits myself. If the business arranges the same. Since the bone dry bill has gone through, it gives our business the biggest boom in its history."

"Furthermore, I am glad to state that the finest fruit, no matter what kind, is grown in this Hudson river valley; the quality or flavor cannot be equalled anywhere in the United States and this is one of the reasons that we are able to make such a tremendous hit with our product."

"You may be interested to know that this year our entire output of about 250 carloads of grape juice was all contracted for before we pressed a grape, and since that time we have turned down nearly half as much as we have sold as we are not able to take the business on. This we have done without any advertising, without any salesmen or any effort whatever."

"When we get the new building we will be in a position to use up all the fruit in Ulster, Dutchess and Columbia counties, of every kind and description and will turn it into fruit juices, jams or jellies. We are going to put in this new building a complete outfit to make soda fountain syrups and crushed fruits, the same as J. H. Rungtford & Smith of Rochester."

"We are trying to put up a plant and show place in front of the Packing Company or the Shredded Wheat Riscuit Company and have a show place here which will equal anything in the manufacturing line for cleanliness and up-to-date methods."

IRON THAT CAN BE WHITTLED.

It is well known that rapid cooling of hot metals hardens them. That the opposite is true has recently been demonstrated in striking fashion by the General Electric company. One of their electricians annealed American iron bars surrounded by hydrogen gas for three hours at a temperature above 1400 degrees Fahrenheit. The product was very little harder than the softest copper, and can be whittled with a knife—Scientific American.

EXTRA WEAR FROM SHOES

"A year ago I had my shoes resoled with Neolin Soles. The soles are still in service, and it looks as if I would not be able to wear them out, because the uppers are going first," said W. C. Dickinson, of New Haven, Conn.

Good repair shops everywhere carry these tough and durable soles. See for yourself how long they last by having them put on a pair of old shoes. If you are in need of new shoes, buy them with Neolin Soles. They cost no more than shoes that give less wear, and you need fewer pairs. They come in many styles for men, women, and children.

Neolin Soles are created by Science to be comfortable and waterproof, as well as long-wearing. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels—guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

Put On The Left Shoe First

They all said it—Doughboy, Foilu, and Tommy—and clinging to that bit of trench superstition, they believed it brought good luck for the day—and longer life in the shell-and racked stretch about them.

But in these fairer, happier days, when peace whirls the wheels of motordom again, we say,

"Put on the right shoe first."

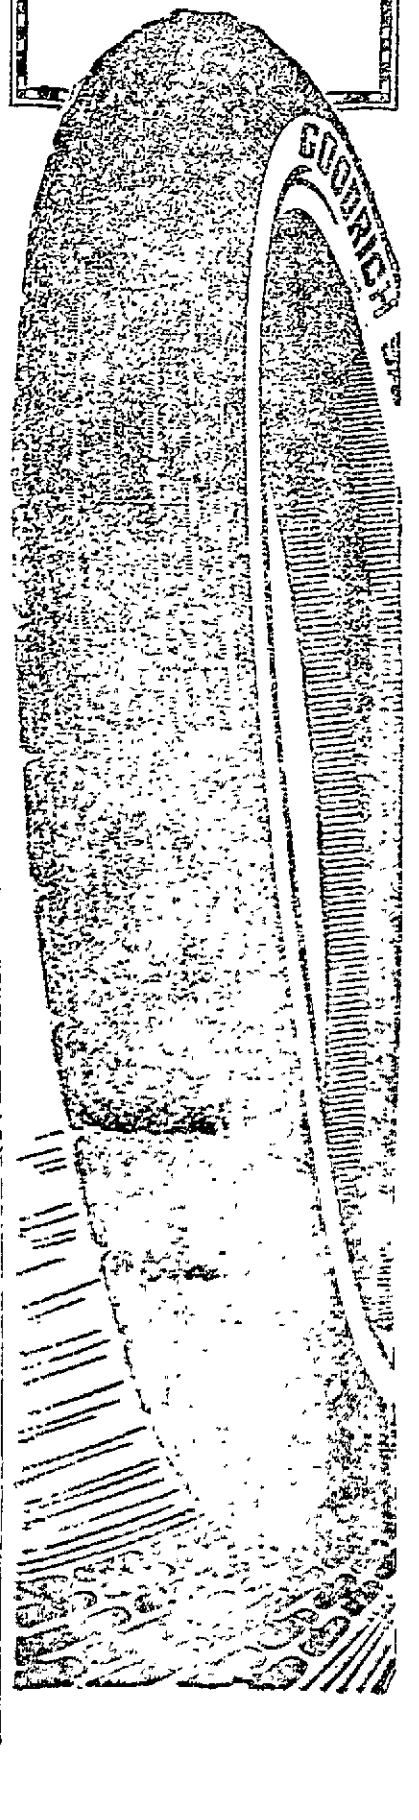

And, of course, the right shoe, is the Goodrich Shoe, because it means good luck day and night, and longer life in your tires.

But there's no superstition about it; only the big, husky body, and the wide, thick BLACK SAFETY TREAD, Goodrich builds into tires that—

BLAKESLEE PROUD OF HIS HORSES

BUGLER BARNETT BLAKESLEE
Of Allaben, writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blakeslee, as follows:

Germany, Jan. 22, 1919.

My Dearest Parents:

Will you please find a few lines to let you know I am all O. K. and feeling fine and dandy, and am in hopes when this reaches you it will find you the same. As it has been some time since I have heard from you dear ones, and have received two letters from Nina and Jim and not any from you, am hoping you are not sick or anything wrong with you. Nina wrote you sent my letters to her and she said she was not hearing anything from me. I can't see what is wrong with the mail as I write you and her at least twice a week and can't understand where they go to.

Now my dear ones, I am going to send you more pictures of my horses and hope you will get them all O. K. I have sent you some others and you have never written me whether you received them or not, and I will take a chance in sending these and will send Nina and Jim one also and hope that they will receive them all O. K. They are not very good, but you can tell which one is me anyway. The other guy has been a good comrade to me since we have been over here and I took him with me when I went out for a ride and we saw a place where they took pictures so we went in. I am the only one in the company that can ride the horse I am on and can tell you he gives me my hands full sometimes, but he has been one true friend all through this war and I wish I could bring him home with me. You thought "Texas" was some horse, but she can't touch one side of this one. The other one is also a fine little animal.

Well, I have the pleasure of having two of the best kept horses in the regiment. The "Major" has a ranch in the west and he has asked me several times if I wanted a job when I got back and it would be a good one, too.

Well my dear ones, as it is growing late and the morning comes early over here for me, so will ring off for this time, hoping to hear from you all soon and that you are all O. K. both you and dear dad. We think we will soon be coming home, and you can believe me I wish it was in the morning as I don't want to see any more of this Germany.

With much love to you and dad and little baby. Your loving son,

TAXPAYER'S DILEMMA

Has No Encyclopedia To Decree Health Board Report.

Editor of the Kingston Freeman:

As I cannot afford to buy an encyclopedia Britannica and there are many others who cannot do likewise, why not have the health board publish their report in English that we all know instead of in Latin or medical terms.

How many of your readers know what the diseases of the city are by reading the report?

We are not students, we acknowledge it, but we are interested citizens.

Very truly yours,
A SMALL TAXPAYER.

Some Marvelous Evolutions When Drills Were Resumed in Camp—Changes a Year Has Wrought in South of France.

Camp de Souge, France, February 20.—Since I have received your last letters telling of how my mail has been delayed I have been keeping the machine busy and guess I have caught about every boat leaving for the U. S. I know how it is with the mail. Sometimes I get a bunch of letters all at once and then come lean days with none. The last letters written are often the first received and the others come loafing along at their own good time. I don't think any of them have deserted, although some sure have been A. W. O. L.

Undoubtedly you have been having some change in the weather, but over here it is getting more spring like every day and I am in hopes that the cold snaps will be less frequent and less severe. Even though it has been cold during the past month it can't be long. It don't seem as though it is the last of February already. March over here is about as bad as in the states though and April and even May are wet and rainy. After that we get "sunny" France. I wonder if I will be here long enough to enjoy those sunny days. I think I will all right.

Your dope about the 27th Division is O. K., but I know that they were supposed to leave a long time ago. Last December when a man went on pass he carried his full equipment so that if his organization moved he would be able to follow without being delayed or returning to the old camp of his organization. I have run across a few of the fellows but none of them I knew. One fellow I met came from down the river and had spent a time visiting at High Falls, so he knew something about the country. He also knew some Kingston fellows with whom he had gone to college. That is about the nearest I have come to seeing anyone from home. The men who come home, I suppose have been wearing their shoulder insignia of their division, their service stripes and their non-com insignia. Now I presume the service stripe will be cancelled and possibly the shoulder insignia. I have only just put service stripes on one blouse which I wear on inspections and like occasions. It is nice to walk around and hear some of the fellows who have just put on one talk about all of the time they have spent in France. They think they are talking to someone who has just arrived, so tell some wonderful stories about the country when they first arrived. I am sure that I can safely say, and will be confirmed by any of the boys who were here, that times have changed during the past year. A year ago on New Year's you walked down the main streets of Bordeaux and saw here and there a khaki clad man while now you walk down the street and see here and there a civilian, French or other uniform but the majority or rather prevailing color seems to be khaki.

You may laugh at the safe place the S. O. S. men have to work in, even now with the armistice in effect, we experienced an "air raid" the other night which sure did blow up things. However, it was not a violation of any of the terms of the armistice, as this particular form of air raid was not covered by any of the iron-clad terms set down in this most wonderful and welcome document. It happened about 2:25 a. m., while we were all asleep. The only damage done was to one of the warehouses, which received a direct hit and one corner was completely blown out. Across the street one of the big Besenau hangars over 100 feet long and 80 feet wide was reduced to a tangled mass of broken and torn timbers and canvas. My idea of it is that the big hangar having housed so many of the successful Liberty planes, decided in its declining days, to try to take a flight for itself, so naturally when the opportunity presented itself the flight was attempted.

It was only an attempt. The "air" got under the big roof and just poked up the whole hangar and dropped on top of one of our warehouses and it was a very successful smash too, believe me. When the hangar was erected the sergeant in charge of the work said when it came down again it would not pay it ever put it up again for so many parts of it were broken. Now I know he was right and you would to if you saw the tangle the thing is in. His words were very truthful. One of the fellows when he was told that the thing had blown down remarked: "We will have to get one of the Air Service sergeants to put it up again," and the lieutenant answered: "No, it will take more than a sergeant to put that hangar up again, it will take at least a colonel."

I would like to get a chance to get out of this camp and get sent to some place where there would be a change of scenery, but I am afraid to signify such intentions for fear they will send me out to the base or else to St. Sulpire or Genicart, either of which would be like jumping from the frying pan into the fire. If there was any chance of getting sent out of the base I sure would make a try. I am tired of this old camp and side and would like to get down town. I'd have a chance to get down town I think, but I don't see it. Now I sort of wish I had none. I would at least have been in town where I could get a regular meal once in a while and see a change of sights.

One of the fellows just came in and said that a train load of troops just arrived. "When do we leave from here, boys, when do we leave from here?"

You sure must be having a very unusual winter back there when you can go auto riding in January and call it time and spring-like. Perhaps the river won't freeze over again, but it is more than likely that before the winter is over you will have to pay for this warm weather with a few weeks of unusually cold weather.

As yet I have heard nothing from my application for leave to Paris, but I still have hopes and if I don't go until after March first I sure will have been out of France. If I can possibly make it I am going to try and get one of those fourteen day leaves and either go to England or Italy. It would be nice to get to some land where you could go out on the streets and read the signs and understand what the people are talking about without an interpreter. Holy smoke, wouldn't that be nice after a year of this French stuff? Then Italy must be nice and has some wonderful sights to see. I would like to come home and talk about "when I was roaming in Rome" like the fellows who always talk of "when I was in Boston," and I don't think it will cost so much at that to make either trip. I may try and get a fourteen day leave in April and then take another trip to the sea-shore in August. I like these French watering places in summer, gay, classy and all—well we might say nifty, why yes. And now with the war over I just know the coast resorts will boom this summer like days of old.

Well, we are regular soldiers again. We drill every day according to a late G. O., and I am like a sailor on land. I can't walk straight any more. I never did know enough about infantry drill to be considered an authority, by heck, and I find in the past six months I have forgotten more than I ever knew. I have some backwards. But some of the others are still worse than I, and can you imagine some of these sergeants who never had any drill at all but came into the army from swivel chair jobs and landed right into another swivel chair? O boy, it is fine, but they are learning things every day. One of the fellows got his squad started ahead one day and forgot even how to stop it and marched it through another company which was standing nearby, marched his men right between the front and rear rank of the company. He got his squad right stepping when he brought it up to join the other squads and forgot how to stop them, when they got up to the rest of the assembled company they collided and he said, "Stop, that will do," and even the lieutenant had to laugh. These fighting quartermasters can sure plan out some magnificent new drills that never were or never will be in I. D. R. I guess we will soon learn though and then they probably will have us do some exhibition drilling to show how drilling ought not to be done.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN MEET AND DINE

Entertained by Ladies of Rondout Church at a Dinner Friday Evening—To Take up "Every Member Canvass" Sunday Afternoon.

The men of the Rondout Presbyterian Church were entertained at a dinner Friday evening in the chapel of the church by the ladies of the church, and at the close of the dinner heard a stirring address on "The New Era Movement of the Church," delivered by the Rev. Dr. James G. Bailey of Newburgh.

These dinners are annual events and are held during the week preceding the annual "Every member canvass" of the church. The dinner that evening was well cooked and well served. The menu contained roast pork, mashed potatoes, gravy, cranberries, fruit salad, a few side dishes, and closed with lemon pie and coffee.

H. E. Brown presided as toastmaster, after the good things had been tucked beneath the belts of the men present, and introduced the speaker of the evening. The first speaker was Mr. Husted, a "ten minute man" who spoke in an interesting manner in the new era movement from the standpoint of the church.

Before Mr. Husted was introduced and throughout the evening there was spirited singing by the men led by Dr. C. H. Bishop, with Miss Esther Rodie at the piano.

Speakers on New Era.

Frank R. Powley, president of the board of trustees of the church, spoke briefly outlining the amount of money needed to carry on the work of the church.

Dr. Bailey, the principal speaker of the evening, spoke earnestly on the New Era movement of the Presbyterian Church and outlined its aims and purposes. Starting later in the month there will be a drive throughout the country by the Presbyterian Church to raise a large amount of money to carry on the work of the church throughout the world. The Presbyterian Church, as well as other Protestant Churches have awakened to the fact that the church is facing a new era. It must take a more active part in the lives of men, and must be alive to the needs of the day. On the battle fields of France the young men of our churches have been brought face to face with death in its varied forms, and they have come to realize that religion is not a cloak to be worn on Sunday and then cast aside for the remainder of the week, but that it is a vital necessity in the lives of men.

The church realizes it must have a message to interest those bronzed young heroes when they return home, if the church hopes to retain its hold on them.

After singing The Star Spangled Banner, the Rev. Dr. C. G. Ellis, the pastor of the church, called upon the Rev. Dr. Cadz, of the Elmwood Street Presbyterian Church, to deliver the benediction.

Every Member Canvass Sunday.

The men of the down town church will take up the work of the "Every Member Canvass" Sunday afternoon. This has been the custom of raising the church funds for several years, and has met with success, and the approval of the church members. By this system every member of the church pledges so much each Sunday towards the support of the church and the mission field.

The dinner Friday evening was one of the most successful held, and the appreciation of the men were extended to the ladies in a rousing vote of thanks.

A JURY TRIAL IN WIEDIS CASE

This morning in police court when the case of Nathan Katz against Nathan Wiedis, charged with assault in the third degree, was called, Frank W. Brooks, attorney for Mr. Wiedis, asked for a jury trial for his client, and a jury was drawn. The case will be tried some evening in the near future. Judge Jenkins represents Mr. Katz.

The alleged assault occurred in the house of Mr. Lankisky when both men met there. Mr. Wiedis was endeavoring to induce Lankisky's daughter to return to work in the button factory on lower Hasbrouck avenue, while Mr. Katz was urging her to remain away from work.

The case promises to be exceedingly interesting when tried.

LABOR OFFICES TO CLOSE MARCH 22

Employment Service Has to Quit When Most Needed Owing to Lack of Funds—Efforts to be Made to Keep Kingston's Office Open.

Chief Examiner William E. Simmons has received official notification from headquarters that the Kingston branch of the United States Employment Service will be discontinued on Saturday, March 22. There will only be four offices left open in the state, two in New York city and two in the upper part of the state. It is understood, however, that efforts are being made to secure local co-operation to keep the Broadway office here open for a short time anyway in an effort to care for a number who are out of work.

The local office has made a most successful record since it was established some time ago. Associated with Mr. Simmons has been Mrs. Laura MacMillan as junior examiner. The records of the office show that they have succeeded in placing many in positions in Kingston and adjoining towns.

The discontinuance of the branch office is due to the failure of congress to appropriate funds to carry the service through the present year, when it is most needed.

Dances at Rosendale Casino.

The big picture show and dance will be held in the Rosendale Casino this evening, and on Monday evening, St. Patrick's night, a masquerade ball and dancing festival will be held. McLean's orchestra of Kingston will furnish the music for both occasions.

Morris Kaplan, the North Front street furniture dealer, is making extensive improvements and enlarging his store. He expects to have one of the largest furniture stores in the city when the alterations are completed.

TROUBLE THREATENS IN N. Y. STRIKE

Striking Marine Workers Resentful Over Boat Owners Plan To Import Men—Seventy Per Cent Of Men Back At Work.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, March 15.—The plan of boat owners to use strike-breakers in the operation of tugs and other craft in New York harbor is today expected to result in serious trouble if it is carried out.

The striking boat men are reported to be in an ugly mood and it is said they plan to use force to prevent imported strike-breakers from taking the places of union men in this harbor. The boat owners have made appeals to Police Commissioner Enright for protection. The strikers have also appealed to the commissioner, claiming that their peaceful pickets, at motor boats, have been interfered with by patrols of the boat owners.

According to James L. Hughes, federal conciliator, the owners can bring the strike to an end by saying one word—"surrender." He added, however, that if the government needs equipment it will take means to get it.

Seventy per cent of the men who joined the harbor strike originally have returned to work, according to union officials.

Differing Fears.

When it is a man getting a lot of false teeth, he is afraid he is not going to be able to eat with them; if it is a woman, she is afraid she will not be able to talk.

Constance Talmadge has a hold of her own, in which she reigns supreme. She is the queen of comedy-drama, the dainty human, delightful exponent on the screen of laughter-plus-drama. At the Opera House tonight.
